CHICAGO, March 21, 2016 – NVN Hotels, a leading national hotel management company, announced today the promotion of Gina Schuster to Vice President of Human Resources (HR), a key leadership position in the firm. In her role, Schuster directly shapes NVN's mission to generate exceptional value for guests, owners, and employees by ensuring talented team members have a rewarding work environment and are empowered to contribute to the firm's continuous cycle of innovation.

Schuster will continue to lead the HR function for the entire NVN Hotels portfolio, overseeing employee relations and all labor-related matters. With the expansion of the HR department with new personnel and her new leadership role, Schuster will continue to ensure those efforts are deeply woven into NVN's corporate vision and culture.

With more than 15 years of experience in hotel management human resources, Schuster offers proven expertise in talent recruitment, engagement, and development, coupled with a detail-driven approach to legal compliance. Prior to joining NVN, she launched McCrone Group's HR division, establishing a strong foundation that would align with business strategy and goals. She also gained experience with Starwood Hotels & Resort Worldwide, serving as Assistant Director of Human Resources for the Sheraton Chicago Hotel & Towers, where she supported more than 800 associates and boosted recruitment and retention.

"We believe that superior guest service begins with motivated and fulfilled operations teams, and creating a culture in which employees thrive begins with the HR function. Gina has a gift for building teams where people feel empowered to do great work and bring ideas forward," comments Sheenal Patel, Chief Executive Officer of NVN Hotels. "By appointing her to a senior leadership position, we recognize her proven ability to help our firm operate welcoming and profitable hotels."
